PHONOLOGICAL TYPOLOGY
August 11-13, 2013
University of Oxford
Somerville College

Organisers: Frans Plank, Larry Hyman, Aditi Lahiri

Sunday August 11

17.00	Aditi Lahiri (Oxford)	Welcome and introduction
17.10	Frans Plank (Konstanz)	What is typology?
18.00	Larry Hyman (Berkeley)	What is phonological typology?
18.50	End of session

Monday August 12

9.00	Paul Kiparsky (Stanford)	Phonemic analyses are not data: on the empirical basis of phonological typology
9.50	Carlos Gussenhoven (Radboud)	Phonological typology and phonological analysis
10.40	Tea/Coffee
11.10	Ian Maddieson (New Mexico)	Is phonological typology possible without (universal) categories?
12.00	Alan Yu (Chicago)	On the emergence of allophonic rules: Lessons for phonological typology
12.50	Lunch
14.00	Jeff Mielke (North Carolina State) & Anthony Brohan (MIT)	A typology of cross-linguistically frequent segmental alternations
14.50	Donca Steriade (MIT)	Typology of base-derivative relations
15.40	Tea/Coffee
16.10	Gunnar Hansson (British Columbia)	Biased transmission and the emergence of phonological typology
17.00	Jeff Heinz (Delaware)	The typology of phonological generalizations: a computational perspective
17.50	Bert Vaux (Cambridge)	Design features of phonological acquisition
18.40	End of session

Tuesday August 13

9.00	Ellen Broselow (Stony Brook)	Typological effects in language contact phonology
9.50	Tomas Riad (Stockholm)	The phonological typology of North Germanic accent
10.40	Tea/Coffee
11.10	Elan Dresher (Toronto)	Contrastive feature hierarchies as a new lens on typology
12.00	Aditi Lahiri (Oxford)	Predicting universal phonological contrasts in FUL
12.50	Lunch
14.00	Johanna Nichols (Berkeley)	Responses of a general typologist
14.50	Group discussion	